

The A303 is one of those roads that looks good on paper, and indeed is good for most of the time, but is invariably subject to congestion during holidays. Sod's Law dictates those almost every time we have a gathering, one or the other end of this road gets stuffed, and people get delayed, lost, or just give up. So, here is another way

From London.

Take the A303 to the big roundabout at BEACON HILL. It's just past ANDOVER and more importantly it's before the bottlenecks that start at Stonehenge.

A338 to SALISBURY

A36 to WILTON

A30 to SHAFTSBURY

You hit a big roundabout, turn right towards town centre.

At the next big roundabout take a left on the

A30 towards SHAFTSBURY & YEOVIL

This is a single carriageway and meanders through open country for 10 miles when you will come to a traffic light controlled crossroads, which is where the A357 crosses. On your right will be an Indian Restaurant (very good it is too) and across from that a big pub.

Take this right turn it will be signposted
WINCANTON.

You will pass through TEMPECOMBE and after a couple of miles go under the A303 at emerge on the outskirts of WINCANTON.

This route is slightly longer, and there are shortcuts, but it will do.

From Bristol or the dread M4 let SHEPTON MALLET be your watchword.

And look for signs for the A37, which will eventually trickle down to the A303. There are many smaller roads, which will bring you in to Wincanton if you see CASTLE CARY you are not far away, and that is well signposted. From there WINCANTON is only about 8 miles away.

Always carry a spade, roll of toilet paper, a bar of chocolate, flask of soup, small bottle of brandy and at least half an ounce of good pipe tobacco.

The latter two items can be left here if you are over burdened on your return journey.
