SATURDAY 10th OCTOBER 2009

A day that will go down in Football History.

A day that when in your
dotage; or next week,
whenever is sooner, you
can show your scars and say "I was there,"

"I ate the pies, I turned up, paid up and played the game".

From all over the country
and beyond, young men and women answered the call. Joined the colours, and made for one day a sleepy town in Somerset
the hub of football
prowwess.

They came because a man wrote a book. They came because his publishers* offered free beer. They came to make history.

That man was,
SIR TERRY PRATCHETT
And the book was,

Team 1

THE DOLLY SISTERS

PERIWINKLE
RENTAWITCH
CAROLINE
KIRSTINE HEALD
HEATHER WILDE

The Dolly Sisters have enjoyed a good season, which is more than can be said of their opponents. If it is not their heavy boots inflicting goals and contusions it is their use of the most foul & abusive language ever heard on a football pitch which makes them a team difficult to beat.

It takes a stout hearted, or stone deaf player not to flinch and lose his stride when the state of his 'smalls' & 'unmentionables' are bandied about for the whole football ground to hear.

Team 2

ANKH-MORPORK UNITED?

Mark Leslie Karl Kemp (Reaper)
Darren (Dr Death) Hill Tom Foolery
Aine (ex cpl in Monstrous Regt)

Representing this team in this game are some well known substitutes for the human race.

It is hoped they are sober at the kick-off
and apparently alive at the games conclusion.

TEAM 3

STEPHEN BRIGGS AND HIS SPORTING THESPIANS

WATCH THEM SING,
LISTEN TO THEM DANCE,
YOU'LL BE AMAZED BY THEIR FANCY MOVES
AND INCREDIBLE COSTUMES.
THE STAGE MIGHT BE THEIR FIRST LOVE, BUT PLAYING TO ANY CROWD WILL DO, ESPECIALLY IF THERE IS A CHANCE OF FREE
FOOD & STRONG LIQUOR.

Team 4

THE UNSEEN UNIVERSITY

Not the 'Official' Unseen University Team, but one made up of students and other ne'er-do-wells'. Hopefully there is nothing from the Dungeon Dimensions about them. Only time will tell.

MALC LAWRENCE
JEAN GUITTET
MARK BICKELL
EDWARD WATT
ANDREW RABY

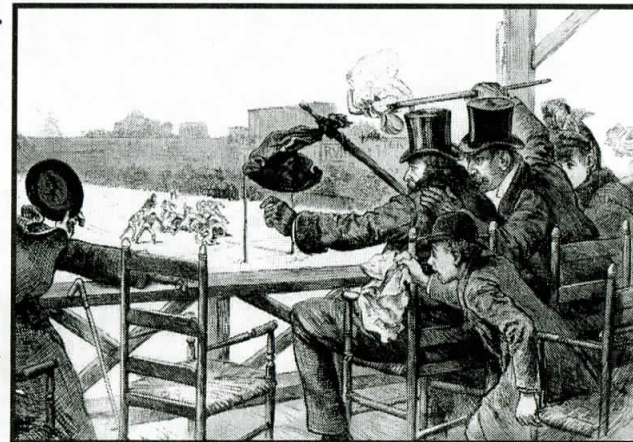

Team 5

The TRANSWORLD PUBLISHERS FLYING FIVE

GARY HARLEY BEN WILLIS
ADAM DOBSON ROB WILKINS*
ANTHONY MCGOWAN

A veritable plethora of footwork talent, honed through long lunch hours and endless sessions with 'personal' trainers.

This team is one to watch, if only because a better bunch of fine wirers you'd never be likely to find outside of Mrs Tandy's parlour. So Ladies, do keep yer hand on yer ha'penny.

Directors & staff of Messrs Transworld, The Publishers, extolling their team to greater efforts

* Substitute for Mr D Brown who is indisposed.

Team 6-ish

THE WINCANTON URCHINS

A team of local scamps & scallywags who when not stealing lead off the roofs are to be found kicking a ball or a can around the streets of Wincanton.

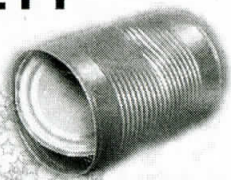

Jolly souls, they are fond of a lark and just love football. They played the First XI of the Royal Marines last season and won during injury time*

* That is the time it took for them to injure or incapacitate all of the RM. XI

Team 7?

Due to the very nature of this event, there could well be a team, or even teams, that are somewhat peripatetic in nature and having wandered by decide to avail themselves of a game.

Should this occur then we shall greet them as 'sportsmen' make them welcome, check their studs and bid them 'kick-off' in the spirit of fraternal football.

You may write their names in here

UNSEEN ACADEMICALS

From the pen of Terry Pratchett

Football has come to the ancient city of Ankh-Morpork - not the old fashioned, grubby pushing and shoving, but the new, fast football with pointy hats for goalposts and balls that keep going when you drop them.

And now, at Unseen University (the multiverse's most prestigious college of wizardry) the wizards must win a football match, without using magic. As the match approaches, four lives are entangled and changed for ever.

Because the thing about football - the important thing about football - is that it is not just about football.

*The Publishers of this organ wish to thank the following:
Sir Terry Pratchett for writing the book,
Messrs J&J for spelling & lunch and Pegasus Print for doing it in such a hurry.*

The town of Wincanton is twinned with the great city of Ankh-Morpork. This has brought a great bounty to our town in the form of cultural exchange and commerce.

When asked by that International powerhouse of Publishing,

TRANSWORLD PUBLISHERS,

To host a football extravaganza to mark the Official Launch of Sir TERRY PRATCHETT'S

new book

'UNSEEN ACADEMICALS'

It seemed the most logical to ask the newly formed
ANKH-MORPORK FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION

to aid us in this prestigious endeavour.

Therefore the games played on this momentous day are played not just in the spirit of good natured sportsmanship, but also under the rules drawn up by the AM.F.A.

A privilege indeed for both players and spectators and one graced by the personage of

SIR TERRY PRATCHETT

And so we say to one and all.

PAY UP, PLAY WELL AND PLAY THE GAME

The Editor would like to take this opportunity to thank all the hard work of Lynsey Dalladay, who in being lumbered with the job of organising this event was handed a task equal to that of herding cats, while blindfolded and with a brass band playing loudly and out of key in the next room.

He would also like to add that Ms Dalladay played no part in the production of this programme and she is not to be blamed in any way.

She is however responsible for the cider being on sale at this event and we did not influence her in any way in making this decision. Not at all, honest.

Signed: Bobby More (Sec A-M Cons Sports Club)
